MACQUARIE University student Josh Bui has received a major boost towards his goal of making a difference in the community thanks to a scholarship from community housing provider Link Housing.

After finding himself without regular accommodation in the middle of his HSC, Josh struggled to focus on his studies.

“I was right in the middle of my high school exams and was in a situation where I had nowhere to live, it was really tough,” Mr Bui said.

“Link has given me stable accommodation so I can pursue higher education.”

He intends to use the funding to support his studies in arts and psychology. “I want to be working with disadvantaged youth, people in need and those in the juvenile justice system,” he said.
